Handbook on Agriculture, Biotechnology and Development - CORE As interdisciplinary series on the application of modern biotechnological approaches to agriculture, forestry, and industry, Biotechnology in Agriculture and Forestry fills the need for a common meeting ground for researchers from diverse fields of plant science. International experts describe the improvement of existing strains and the development of new ones from test tube to field and industry. Biotechnology in Agriculture and Forestry What is the future of biotechnology in forest management? Trees may be genetically engineered for:

- Herbicide resistance
- Drought resistance
- Fast growth of firewood or erosion control species
- Environmental tolerance to poor soils, a low pH or soils contaminated with toxins (such as salt)

Activity 4 - Forest Biotechnology Biotechnology tools such as molecular markers and genomics are therefore providing important knowledge about naturally regenerated tropical forests and important insights into the nature of the entire tropical forest ecosystems, including the relationship between the forest trees and the microbial communities with which they interact, which can influence the strategies employed for managing tropical forests. Agricultural Biotechnologies: Forestry Directory of organization and field activities of the Department of Agriculture.
